1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over von Bonin(US 4831062) in view of European Patent(EP 1001000A1).

The primary reference to von Bonin teaches the basic claimed product including an article of fiber-reinforced fire product comprising a matrix of plasticizer, sawdust, fillers and glass fibers including layers made therefrom- col 1, lines 5-14; col 3, 52- col 4, line 7. Although the primary reference teaches the numerous and included material for its fire protection article as claimed, it appears silent to the aspect of including aluminous cement in its matrix. The secondary reference to the European Patent, however, teaches that it is known in the art to include such claimed aluminous cement material in fire protective articles as taught by the primary reference. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art the time the invention is made to combine the teachings of the secondary reference and include such cement material as taught by the secondary reference in von Bonin, in the absence of unexpected results and to further impart desired demands and properties to the same- page 3, lines 10-15. concerning claims 3 and 5, the primary reference teaches the claimed filler material and includes sawdust- col 3, lines 51- col 4, line 4. Concerning claims 2 and 4, the reference teaches the claimed plasticizer in col 4, lines 14-34. Concerning claims 8 and 9, both reference panel building articles- see primary reference, col 5, lines 40-53.; see European patent , page 3, lines 12-15. Concerning claim 7, the primary reference teaches the fibers in a parallel-like manner- col 5, lines 50-53. See secondary reference, also.

Art Unit: 1774

3. Claims 10-16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over European Patent(EP 1001000 A1).

The cited reference teaches the claimed process including mixing several material together and casting and drying same to form the fire retardant product- page 2, lines 50-58; page 4, lines 36-38; page 3, lines 2-22. Concerning claims 11-15, it is submitted the type and/or amounts of material used during the process is of no patentable consequences to the instant question for patentability which must be manipulatively distinct. However, it is submitted it would have been obvious in the cited reference to employ such material. It is submitted , however, the reference teaches these material- see reference. Concerning claim 16, the reference teaches multilayering steps on page 4, lines 37-41. It is submitted it would have been obvious to the skilled artisan to apply such layers in desired order. This amounts to rearranging such layers- In re Japikse, 86 USPQ 70.

4. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Goodson(US 6458423 B1) and von Bonin(US 4740527) are cited of interest for their respective teachings as set forth and additionally to show the state of the art.
